

SubliJet IQ™

Are You Ready for the IQ Generation?

Sawgrass Technologies is releasing the next generation of sublimation ink – SubliJet IQ™ digital transfer inks. Sawgrass has taken a completely unique direction with this ink as a result of our dedicated efforts utilizing new manufacturing and testing standard operating procedures (SOPs).

SubliJet IQ's new, enhanced level of performance represents the highest standard ever seen in the history of digital sublimation. Most important to your customers is the extended printing capabilities, and consistent results.

SubliJet IQ will be available for both desktop and wide-format sublimation systems and will be the standard for all future platforms released by Sawgrass. As with all of our sublimation solutions, SubliJet IQ systems will be backed by our PartnerPlus Program.

Sublimation IQ offers you and your customers:

- Extended printing capability in both desktop and wide-format inkjet printers
- Enhanced ink stability
- Fewer cleanings at start-up and during print runs
- World class standards of quality assurance and product development

Features	Benefit
Fewer cleanings required for start-up and during operation	Saves customers time and money by not wasting ink or valuable production time
Extended print runs with less downtime	Adds performance stability to allow longer, unattended print runs without production interruptions
PowerDriver IQ Color Management Software with Ink Verification System	Ensures your customers are using the right ink for their specific system – provides unique output controls for optimum results.
Available for both desktop and wide-format inkjet printers	Allows you to offer these product enhancements for all levels of production
Employing advanced manufacturing and testing technology with highest level of quality assurance	Ensures users have the most stable solution for sublimation printing with consistent results
Delivered to you by the leader in digital technology solutions	Provides customers assurance that they are getting a total product solution from the right partner to help their sublimation business grow
Backed by our PartnerPlus Customer Support Program	Added security that customers have a partner to help them resolve any potential technical support issue